Conclusions of the Court-Martial Sent to Eastern Department for Final Action.

STRONG PLEA IS MADE FOR YOUNG DEFENDANT

Counsel Puts Blame for Fatal Shoot ing of Spaulding Upon Officers Supervising the Guard.

After calling two more witnesses for the defense and the hearing of argument on behalf of the accused the court-martial trying the case of Harold F. Wesley, charged with the murder of James J. Spaulding at Camp Ordway August 13, came to a verdict and has sent the case to the Eastern Department for final action.

Lieut. A. L. Smith, chaplain of the 3d Infantry, was called as the first witness. Asked if he had heard any statement of Spaulding on his deathbed that the shooting was accidental, he said he had not.

John Strother, hospital attendant at the post hospital at Fort Myer, where Spaulding was taken following the shooting, and where he subsequently died, testified that Spaulding made the statement that the shooting was acci-

Lieut. William J. Bacon, judge advo-cate of the court, submitted the case on the evidence adduced and did not undertake to argue.

Strong Plea by Counsel.

A strong plea for the young man was made by his counsel, Lieut. H. H. Galliett, 3d Infantry. He laid particular stress on the inexperience of the man in the use of firearms, pointed out that there had been several accidental discharges of rifles in the hands of men on guard and put the blame for the shooting on officers and non-commissioned officers supervising the guard.

After pointing out that the sergeant and corporal of the guard had seen the accused with the gun across his lap and had failed to contion him Lieut Gal-accused with the gun across his iap and had failed to caution him, Lieut. Galliett said: "The further laxness of the officer and non-commissioned officers is shown by the fact that a member of the guard on post was permitted to unload and reload his gun from the supply of cartridges on the table in the tent of the officer of the guard without any supervision whatever or any inspection of his piece. Of what use is an inspection by the corporal of the guard, or any other officer of the guard, if members on post are permitted to unload and load their guns from the main ammunition supply at will?

and load their guns from the main ammunition supply at will?
"I submit that the failure of the sergeant and corporal of the guard to call the attention of the accused to the fact that he was holding his piece in such a manner as to endanger the lives of others was such a grave omission of duty as to call for the strongest censure, and should shift the greater part of the blame for this accident to their shoulders. This was especially true in view of the fact that Wesley was no more than a recruit with only meager exthan a recruit with only meager ex-perience with loaded firearms.

Wesley Had Had No Sleep.

"He had had no sleep the night be fore. He was permitted to sit in a chair for nearly two hours after a sleepless night. His lack of sleep and the nervous tension of guarding prisoners the sake of example to others, it is be-lieved that the lesson has been suf-ficiently impressed on every one in this camp. It is needless to make the ac-cused suffer further. The knowledge that he has taken the life of a fellow human being, even though entirely by accident, will mar all the rest of his life. And that surely is punishment

Absence of Witness Causes Delay.

It was necessary for the court to take an adjournment yesterday afternoon until this morning because of the absence from camp of one of the witnesses for the defense, Lieut. A. L. Smith, chaplain. Lieut. Galliett, counsel for the defense, said that he did not learn of this new witness until after the trial had been under way, and that unless the court was willing to concede that the shooting was accidental, from the testimony of Wesley and other testimony adduced, he would be compelled to ask an adjournment. Lieut. Col. Stephan, president of the court, said that he could not concede for the court that the shooting was accidental. The court was cleared pending a discussion of the request, and it was finally decided to adjourn. sel for the defense, said that he did

He demonstrated to the court how he was sitting at the time of the discharge. It was brought out on direct examination that he had little sleep the night before the accident. He said the mosquitoes were so bad around the guard tent that he was unable to sleep. He said it was useless to try to sleep, and he stood around and talked with other members of the guard. As a general rule the members of the guard did not sleep, because they couldn't.

At this point the defense rested until the other witness could be obtained.
